

MEDIA ACCREDITATION RULES

We invite you to get acquainted with the rules for the accreditation of media representatives in the 2025 Baltic Racing Series (hereinafter referred to as BRS) motor racing competitions.

BASIC PRINCIPLES OF ACCREDITATION

By submitting an application for accreditation, the media representative undertakes to properly and correctly inform the audience of the represented media about the event both before and after its course. The media representative undertakes to use the exact name of the race mentioned in the BRS race calendar.

Accreditation of media representatives is provided for:

- journalists;
- media photographers;
- TV operators;
- team representatives;

Accreditation can be obtained by persons who have reached the age of 18 at the time of applying for accreditation. It is possible for accredited media representatives to use ground-operated flying aids, having previously agreed with the organizer of the competition and receiving a written permission, as well as separately coordinating it with the existing municipality.

MEDIA VESTS AND SAFETY RULES

- Media photographers, radio correspondents and operators who wish to receive media accreditation and media vests, as well as to be in dangerous places on the track, need a life insurance policy (t.sk. for sports competitions) worth at least 3000 EUR.
- Accredited media representatives will be able to receive media vests against a warranty fee of 20 EUR.
- Accredited media representatives who have a media vest issued by the organizer of the competition are allowed to be in dangerous places on the track, but not closer than 1 (one) meter from the security fence (tape, fence, etc.).
- It is categorically forbidden to transfer the received media vest and media bracelet to other persons.
- Accredited media representatives are present and work at the venue of the event in accordance with the instructions of the official persons of the organizers of the competition regarding safety, but the responsibility for their health and safety during the event is assumed by the media representatives themselves.

SUBMISSION AND APPROVAL OF THE ACCREDITATION APPLICATION

BRS RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS

- Consideration of incomplete or incorrectly completed accreditation applications by the BRS.
- The BRS shall decide whether to approve or reject the application for accreditation.
- The BRS reserves the sole right to decide which media representatives to issue media bracelets and vests to. The confirmation of the granting or rejection of accreditation shall be sent to media representatives (to the e-mail specified in the application for accreditation) within five working days after receipt of the application for accreditation.
- The BRS reserves the right to revoke the accreditation card and/or media vest assigned to a media representative if it violates the rules for the safety of media representatives and/or the rules for accreditation of media representatives during the competition.

RECEIVING AND HANDING OVER MEDIA CARDS AND MEDIA VESTS

- Accredited media representatives will be able to receive and hand over media cards and media vests to the media centre.
- Media cards and media vests can only be obtained in person by submitting a signed letter of accreditation.
- By submitting an application for accreditation, the relevant media representative confirms that he or she has read the rules for the safety of media representatives and the rules for the accreditation of media representatives, agrees with them and takes full responsibility for his or her actions.
